SiSu® Dance Company Presents: A Free Production of "The Red Shoes"

ALBUQUERQUE, NM – May 11 – SiSu® Dance Company proudly announces its upcoming free production of "The Red Shoes," a captivating adaptation of Hans Christian Andersen's timeless tale. Set to enthrall audiences with its mesmerizing choreography and poignant narrative, this rendition promises to be a spellbinding experience for all ages.

Published by Hans Christian Andersen in 1845, "The Red Shoes" has endured the test of time, captivating readers with its timeless themes and compelling storyline. In 1948, the tale transitioned to the silver screen as a British drama feature film, featuring renowned dancers from the ballet world. Now, Albuquerque's SiSu® Dance Company brings its own unique interpretation of this classic tale to the stage.

At the heart of "The Red Shoes" lies a profound moral message. Choreographed and adapted by SiSu® Dance Company's founder and director Megan Nicko, this rendition of "The Red Shoes" breathes new life into Andersen's tale. Exploring the tragic consequences of sin in various forms such as envy, jealousy, temptation, selfishness, and greed, Nicko's vision promises to captivate and resonate with audiences in deeply felt ways.

"We're thrilled to bring 'The Red Shoes' to life in a way that honors Andersen's original tale while offering a fresh perspective," says Megan Nicko, choreographer and adapter of the production.

The production will be presented free of charge, offering the community an opportunity to experience the magic of live performance without barriers. Audiences can expect a mesmerizing blend of captivating choreography, stunning visuals, and powerful storytelling leaving a lasting impression.

Don't miss this enchanting production of "The Red Shoes" by SiSu® Dance Company. Join us as we embark on a journey of self-discovery, redemption, and the enduring power of the human spirit.
